

TABLE OF CONTENTS

From the Editors 7

Part One:

Journeys, Voyages, Quests

Francesca Orestano

Charles Dickens, Anthony Trollope, and the Spirit of the American Place 17

Michael Hollington

Disappointment and Discovery: Dickens's Pictures from Italy in the Context of Travel Writings by Goethe and George Eliot 35

Julia Helena Wilde

"The blessed isles" and the "native shore": Depictions of the Earthly Paradise and Ireland in "The Voyage of St. Brendan" by Denis Florence MacCarthy 49

Irina Kantarbaeva-Bill

Henry Lansdell's Repeat Journeys to Central Asia: Between Self-censorship and Disclosure 69

Magdalena Ożarska

The Acts of Writing and Reading Mary and Dorothy Wordsworths' 1820 Continental Travel Journals: An Intertextual Perspective 87

Przemysław Uściński

Romantic Wanderers: The Peripatetic Mode in Wordsworth and Coleridge 97

Part Two:

The Exotic and the Foreign

Françoise Besson

The Quest for Otherness as a Step to Awareness: Henry Russell's Travels to Asia 117

Jacek Mydla
 The Exotic and the Foreign in the Sherlock Holmes Canon:
 Narratives of Displacement 149

Magdalena Pypeć
 The Rhetoric of Imperial Gothic in The Mystery of Edwin Drood 165

Dorota Osińska
 “She is a pregnant horror as she stands”: Medea and the Other in Amy Levy’s “Medea. A Fragment in Drama Form” 197

Notes on Contributors 215