

Contents

Acknowledgements	6
Preface	7
Ewa Wałaszewska The lexical entry in lexical pragmatics – a relevance-theoretic view	12
Daniel J. Sax Not quite ‘out of the blue’? Towards a dynamic, relevance-theoretic approach to thetic sentences in English	24
Agnieszka Solska On the notion of ‘pragmatic ambiguity’: accessing multiple meanings in free indirect discourse	54
Maria Jodłowiec The implicit revisited	64
Manuel Padilla Cruz Metarepresentation, attitudinal utterances and attitude combination: a relevance-theoretic approach	75
Katarzyna Bromberek-Dyzman The relevance of valence in pragmatic inferring	89
Agnieszka Piskorska Cognition and emotions – jointly contributing to positive cognitive effects?	102
Elwira Szehidewicz A relevance-theoretic analysis of emotions in a cognitive-behavioural psychotherapy session	112
Jolanta Sak-Wernicka Gaps in blind learners’ knowledge – can Relevance Theory account for them?	124
Paweł Konopczak A relevance-assisted approach to the origins of human communication	136
Maria Jodłowiec and Agnieszka Piskorska Translating Relevance: Communication and Cognition into Polish: challenges and pitfalls	152