Table of Contents

Introduction and Acknowledgements ............................... 7

Bartłomiej Błaszkiewicz - Preface ............................... 9

Bartłomiej Błaszkiewicz - George R.R. Martin's A Song of Ice and Fire and the Narrative Conventions of the Interlaced Romance ................................................................. 15

Joanna Kokot - The text and the World. The Convention of Interlacement and its Functions in George R.R. Martin's A Game of Thrones ................................................. 49

Rebekah M. Fowler - Sansa’s Songs: The Allegory of Medieval Romance in George R. R. Martin’s A Song of Ice and Fire Series ................................................................. 71

Anna Czarnowus - The Other Worlds of George R.R. Martin’s A Song of Ice and Fire ............................................. 95

Michael Charlton - A Clash of Words: Challenging the Medieval Rhetorical Tradition of the Moral Speaker in George R.R. Martin’s A Song of Fire and Ice ....................... 115
Maria Błaszkiewicz The Function of the Grotesque in George R.R. Martin’s A Song of Ice and Fire ................................. 139

Joanna Szwed-Śliwowska – Ned’s ofermod or the Anglo-Saxon Lordship and the Stark Dynasty in G. R. R. Martin’s A Song of Ice and Fire .................................................. 161

Łukasz Neubauer “Dark Wings” and “Grey Furs”: The Old Germanic Roots of Carrion-Eating Beasts in A Song of Ice and Fire ................................................................. 181

Katarzyna Blacharska – Ambiguity in the Depiction of Melisandre in A Song of Ice and Fire by George R. R. Martin . . . . 211

Justyna Brzezińska – Reading Beric Dondarrion in the Light of the Robin Hood Legend ................................. 231

Shiloh R. Carroll – “You Ought to be in Skirts and Me in Mail”: Gender and History in George R.R. Martin’s A Song of Ice and Fire ................................................................. 247

Ravindra Pratap Singh, University of Lucknow – Mapping Subcultural Contexts: Ins and Outs (The Reception of A Song of Ice and Fire in India) ................................. 261

Notes on Contributors ................................................................. 275